About Give&Go

The Give&Go Grocery Project was established for the civic purpose of providing the student body and their families access to consistent fresh seasonal and culturally specific nutrition delivered monthly directly to their door. In the institutions where our project operates, Give&Go becomes at once a tool that supplements food resources in homes, an educational initiative, and a community-building project. It accomplishes this through institutional partnerships, individual giving, health-focused content, and volunteer-powered production teams that engage the community in the work that serves its most vulnerable members.

How many different types of foods have we introduced families to...

In 2024, how can we reach our targets, serve more students and families, and widen our offering to the broader community?

Space- Having the use of a commercial production facility that can accommodate the scale of our grocery operation two days per month.

Resources- We need to recertify our commitment to giving families quality produce. Doubling the amount of food we receive does this and presents an opportunity to engage other partner sites.

Financing- Program costs associated with operating the Give&Go Grocery Project are essential to running a safe, effective, and efficient operation. We are volunteer-powered, but this program's essential elements can only move forward (and quickly) through financial investment in the project.
